THROUGH CHILDREN'S LAW CENTER'S THOUGHT LEADERSHIP SERIES...

we bring together our closest allies and supporters for robust discussions about the most critical issues facing children and families. In 2018 we brought experts to talk about tackling the bullying epidemic in our schools, the impact of immigration politics and policy on DC children, addressing the stark racial and health disparities that lead to pediatric asthma, and the impact of trauma, specifically gun violence, on students.

Senator Chris Murphy (D-CT) and Catherine Holahan spoke on March 14, 2018, the morning of a national student walkout protesting gun violence.
